Senate Committee Looks Closely Into
Sale of Property at Excelsior Springs, Mo., to Veterans' Bureau

NO ACCUSATIONS MADE AGAINST MORSE'S INTEGRITY

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Circumstances surrounding the acquisition of the hospital site at Excelsior Springs, Mo., today came under further scrutiny of the special senate committee to investigate the affairs of the Veterans' Bureau. E. L. Morse, widely known figure in Republican politics and the manager of the Lowden campaign in 1920, was questioned in great detail about the deal for the site which he owned and which passed under government control. He was cross examined on the basis of testimony yesterday by government employees that the deal was rushed through on the last day of the Wilson administration after there had been at the last minute an increase in rental prices.

Testimony showed contracts with Morse called for approximately $182,000 from the government where as an affidavit from a Kansas City real estate dealer appraised Morse's holdings at $80,000. The statement read into the record was the government finally paid Morse $173,000. Counsel for the committee stated the purpose of questioning Morse was not to reflect upon his integrity but to bring the manner in which these charges with important obligations discharged their duty.

5 ARRESTED FOR KILLING DEPUTY

Alleged Slayers of George Hall Arraigned—Sheriff Greer to Guard Them

CLAIRFIELD, Tenn., Oct. 30.—Sheriff Greer of Claiborne county, at noon yesterday arrested Charles Hatfield, Albert Hatfield, Tom Hatfield, George Frazier and Joe Johnson, the last named a constable, in connection with the killing of Deputy Sheriff George Hall here Saturday morning. The five persons being charged jointly with the one warrant naming them with the name of Hall.

Charles Hatfield, 26 years old, admits that he did the shooting, the others being accused of being accomplices in the killing. Charles Hatfield was in the custody of Constable Joe Johnson at the time and it was Johnson's gun with which the shooting was done. Hatfield was charged with resisting arrest a few days ago, and the other three defendants in the killing case were there to attend the trial, which was to have been held before Justice of the Peace Thomas within an hour of the time Deputy Sheriff Hall is said to have driven up in an automobile, accompanied by a woman and two men.

The prisoners said that Hall is all this much her story? and was informed that a trial was to begin soon. Hall is said to have turned his attention then to George Frazier, who had a shot gun with him, asking Frazier if he had a hunter's license. On receiving a negative reply, Hall is said to have seized the gun and wrested it from Frazier. It was a moment or two after the gun had gotten in the possession of Hall that the lead was fired by Hatfield.

Hatfield told Deputy Sheriff Greer that when the shot was fired Hall was facing him and that Hall turned away when he saw that Hatfield was about to fire, thus explaining the fact that the shot entered from behind the ear. The prisoner said he thought Hall was going to use Frazier's gun on him and fled believing his own life to be in danger.

CORBIN PLANS BIG ARMISTICE DAY

Parade in Morning, Football Game in Afternoon and Movies at Night

CORBIN, Ky., Oct. 30.—Planning on one of the biggest Armistice Day celebrations ever held in Corbin since the close of the hostilities of the World War, members of the Fannie Wilder post American Legion have already advanced details for the events which will center round a monster parade in the morning and a football game and other features in the afternoon, the latter to be held at the Tri-Corbin fair grounds. The evening will be devoted to a patriotic picture at the Hippodrome theatre.

The day will be officially started early Saturday morning when the veterans will form a line of march through the principal downtown streets and the veterans will again be under orders and the click of the shoe against the pavement will put many of the warriors in mind of the days of marching on the French soil of the hard hours of drill that were put in before going abroad. The line of march will be maintained until after the entire business part of the city has been traversed and then the parade is disbanded until in the afternoon when they will again form and attend the football game between Corbin High school eleven and the squad from Williamsburg. The game will be played on the fair grounds and will start at 2:30 o'clock. The Corbin squad has been hitting the line hard and has a bull dog way of going after their opponents. The county capital men have an equally strong reputation and the veterans, as well as the public are promised one of the hottest football games that will be played on the fair ground this year. The game will be a feature to the veterans, many of whom have not seen a football game since they were released from service where each regiment maintained a team.

Following the game in the afternoon, the vets will be at leisure until the call to assemble will sound once more and this time the men who served during the war will go to the Hippodrome theatre for recreation and there a patriotic picture will be exhibited.

The official delegates are Mrs. D. G. Hanks, Mrs. H. H. Wright, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. M. J. Spangston and Mrs. Helen Foster.

On Friday evening the Woman's Club of Middlesboro will give a banquet and reception at the Hotel Cumberland for state and district officers of the Pineville Woman's Club, and husbands of the Middlesboro members. This function will begin at 8 p. m. and all who plan to attend are asked to notify Mrs. W. R. Paul at once so that reservations may be made.

PLAN FOR PINEVILLE
AS U. M. W. CENTER

Headquarters May be Moved in Near Future Organizer Here
Today Says

Plans are being made to move the headquarters of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, from Knoxville to Pineville, according to an organizer of the union who is in Middlesboro today.

Officials of the organization consider Pineville a much better place to conduct its operations on account of its central location in the Kentucky Tennessee district. When it is moved to this county, territory adjoining parts of Virginia may also be included in the district at its seat.

The suite of offices at present occupied by Jack Bradley, Pineville coal operator, will be occupied by the mine workers, the representative stated, Mr. Bradley being now engaged in preparations for moving to the Masonic building. The change will take place in a few days, it is thought.

The U. M. W., which has some 600 members in this district, has its district headquarters at Knoxville. It also has branch offices at Chattanooga, Tenn., and at Harlan, District President W. A. Turnbull, Secretary Reed and a number of the clerks are at the office permanently and organizers of the district are there intermittently.

FEW CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

SEN. STANLEY
FLAYS G. O. P.
YESTERDAY

Former Governor in Address Here Has Large Array of Figures on Morrow Administration—
Many Hear Him

LITTLE TO SAY OF FIELDS' QUALIFICATIONS

Charging that Gov. Morrow's administration had cost taxpayers of Kentucky more than twice as much as the last Democratic administration and emphatically denying that Fields favors a coal production tax, Sen. A. O. Stanley addressed a large audience at the Manning theatre yesterday afternoon.

Giving figures which he claimed were obtained from a Republican auditor, Sen. Stanley stated that during his own administration in this state $2,051,148.37 were collected from the people in the form of taxes and that $800,000 in public debts had been retired. More than $53,000,000 has been paid in taxes during the present administration and the state is "$100,000 in a hole," he stated.

The speaker claimed that the Democratic party had never favored any measure which would injure the coal industry, that it had, on the other hand, always been on the side of the "Borah's bid" providing for government ownership of mines. Before Cantrell died he named Fields as his successor because he would carry on the Democratic platform of Cantrell which opposed the tax on the speaker.

Claiming that he had learned when a boy hunter to shoot at "anything too small to hit" he did not say very much about Dawson. He claimed that the people of this section, if they wish to support a mountain man, should vote for Fields who was born and reared in the mountains and who is "from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet a Democrat."

"Dawson was old enough to betray the Democratic party before he ever saw a mountain," Sen. Stanley asserted. He claims that the Republican nominee had changed his politics in coming to Bell county, not because he conscientiously believed in the Republican principles but because it was to his interest to change. "In the coming election your choice will be between a straight Democrat and a renegade Democrat," he stated.

In giving a historical sketch of his party, Sen. Stanley stated that its principles had been incorporated in the declaration of Independence by Thomas Jefferson, that the two succeeding presidents had helped to establish the party on a firm base. He told of the evolution of the Republican party through the Federalist and Whig stages.

In speaking of national politics, he stated that when Wilson went into office a decade ago the property in the United States was valued at 187 billion dollars, that it was worth 300 billion when he went out of office that now, "after two years of Republican administration, the Republican census shows it has gone down to 225 billions."

Returning to Kentucky affairs, he claimed that Morrow, "tried by the standards set by his own party has broken all promises and spurned his platform." He mentioned a few instances in which the present governor had pardoned men from state penal institutions.

ASHEVILLE PRAISES WORK ON ROADS

Another Conference on Highway From Cincinnati, This Way South, Planned

The following letter to W. E. Frazier, cashier of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co., is from the Asheville Real Estate Board secretary and is in reference to the road program previously outlined:

The Asheville Real Estate Board is greatly interested in the report given by the officials of the Asheville Western Carolina Motor Club, as to the progress made and contracts contemplated in your enthusiastic campaign to eliminate bad stretches of road on the great central scenic route "A" Highway between Cincinnati and Knoxville, Asheville and South Platte. We wish to congratulate you people on the energetic and co-operative spirit manifested.

The survey presented by these officials indicate that if permanent maintenance is kept on your county between Corbin and Barbourville during November and December this year and again on and after March 1st 1924, while your new highway is being hard surfaced, that the balance of the great highway system will be in such condition as to justify one people and those of Florida in sending thousands of motorists over your roads.

Experience has shown that the average tourist car leaves a minimum of about $20 in each day's run of not to exceed one hundred and twenty-five miles, therefore if you get this business it will add very materially to the daily cash revenues of your cities.

I understand that, on account of the importance of the project, our Motor Club officials are to again meet with you folks to lend the Club's assistance in getting this business for your city and ours.

Our Board wishes to convey to your citizenship its sincere desire to co-operate with you to the end that we all may have our share of the vast array of motorists traveling from North to South and back again.

Yours very truly,
C. C. Knight,
Secretary.

Booth, president of the International Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Guaranty Trust company, sailed today for Paris to arrange a conference of delegates of 38 nations to make recommendations regarding the proposed reparations division advocated by Secretary of State Hughes. Booth was hesitant in discussing the Paris session but reported his hurried trip concerned selection of financial experts who under Hughes' plan would pass on the amount Germany might be expected to pay. "I think it will be a very important session," was all Booth would say.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Great Britain has accepted Potsdam's terms for a conference of experts to consider the reparations question.

TO BE EXTENSIVELY AD-VERTISED AS ROUTE A

Arrangements to put permanent maintenance on the detour road between Corbin and Corbin, until the time when the main road, the contract for which is to be let Friday, will have been completed, were made last night at a meeting of men from Middlesboro, Pineville, Barbourville and Corbin, held in the Continental hotel at Pineville. A. P. Liebzig of Middlesboro presided at the meeting. In order to start this road, the men at the meeting pledged $750 to be raised by the Kiwanis Club of each of these four towns to carry on until a method of financing was under consideration, he worked out.

Those present at the meeting last night were: A. P. Liebzig, C. A. Blackburn, H. K. Jody and W. E. Frazier of Middlesboro; Ed Samuels, Gene Martin and P. T. Atkins of Pineville; J. A. McDevitt, E. W. Sant, J. D. Archer, O. G. Catron, R. W. Cole, J. T. Stouffer, J. D. Catron and H. C. Miller of Barbourville, S. A. Phillips, and L. O. Chittwood and N. Buckner of Corbin and Charles O'Connor of Asheville. Another meeting will be held Saturday night to complete plans and see that the work is started at the earliest possible moment.

The provisions for keeping this road in shape now makes a good road from Cumberland Gap to Lexington. The road from Pineville to Barbourville is entirely completed and was opened up last night for good. Between Corbin and Lexington there is a total of nine miles, scattered out in several stretches, which needs attention. These places, however, the state highway commission agreed yesterday to keep in passable condition at the state's expense on condition that the people of this section keep up the eight mile detour in Knox county.

This work has been done under the direction of the West Carolina Motor Club, which beginning with January 1, 1924, will be known as the Interstate Highways and Tours, Inc., and persons all along this line will be eligible to membership in it. This company plans an intensive advertising campaign during the next 12 months to cost about $73,000. By this they will put steel signs all along the highway designating it as Route A. They will advertise in newspapers and magazines, maps, and booklets will be distributed, describing the attractions in each of the towns on the route.

This is the shortest route for most travelers to Florida from the north and it is desirable the most beautiful from a scenic point of view, the view considered by most travelers. Last year about 220,000 cars went to Florida. It is estimated that this year, if this route is advertised properly, at least one out of every ten will come this way.

Mr. Buckner and Mr. O'Connor of Asheville, who are responsible for the action being taken in this section, will remain in this territory 30 days or more to see that these plans work out as far as possible.

BETTER SCHOOLS AND ROADS OR LOWER TAXES

From time to time we hear charges brought against the Morrow administration for the money it has spent and for its failure to lower taxes. Is it possible that the Democrats think the public of Kentucky believes the remarkable improvements in schools and roads could have been made without spending money for them? Or do they think that the people of our state are so commercial and short-sighted that lower taxation is their only concern?

The popular cry in the state today is Better Schools and Better Roads, all well enough. But every thinking citizen knows that neither of these is possible without money, derived from the state taxes, to pay for them. The burden has been and is now particularly heavy because of the many years of lethargy, under Democratic rule, in which no attempt to improve conditions in the state were made, and in which Kentucky, to us the fairest and proudest state in the Union, sank almost to the very bottom in its school rank and became known as the "detour state" in the road world.

During the last administration, there has been an awakening in the state and a desperate endeavor to put Kentucky back where she belongs. More than two thousand rural schools, too poor to hire teachers before, have been given enough help from the state to reopen; the county school superintendent situation has been reformed; a commendable road program has been inaugurated; and a sweeping reform in state charitable and penal institutions has been brought about. All of these things took money of course, and an amount that shows up because the condition is so in contrast with what had prevailed before.

Senator Stanley, in his address yesterday, saw fit to criticize Governor Morrow for extravagance in penal institutions. Yet all Kentucky knows that the money on these institutions has been spent by the State Board of Charities and Corrections, composed of some of the most competent men in the state who have done a noteworthy work in bringing these institutions out of the corrupt condition in which they had been managed under Democratic administration. The worth of these members of this board is established by the fact that the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, the Parent-Teachers Association and almost every other civic organization in the state with no thought of political bias, has endorsed the board and asked for its reappointment next term in a request which Mr. Dawson has promised and Mr. Fields has copied.

PAGING "LEADING CITIZEN OF MIDDLESBORO"

Sunday's Lexington Herald carries a People's Forum article, well played up signed by Fred Meldrum of Middlesboro, Ky., in which some very pointed though pointed questions are put to Mr. Dawson. In an editorial the Herald comments at length on these questions which are styled as a communication from a leading citizen of Middlesboro.

The name of Fred Meldrum is not in the Middlesboro city directory and by diligent inquiry we have been unable to find any thing about a man by that name. It seems to us quite beside the point for a man who does not sign his own name to take it upon himself to expose Mr. Dawson for a shifty stand, and equally beside the point for the Lexington paper to print such an item as representing the view of a leading citizen of this city unless the paper knows what it is talking about.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

Plans for legislation in the next session of Congress, which may be at extra session the last of this month or early in November, are being rapidly made by the administration and congressional leaders.

The first big piece of legislation will be bills to assist the agricultural interests. It is believed this will take the form of enlarged powers for the Federal farm loan banks to make loans more frequently, on easier terms, and smaller rates of interest. Legislation may be proposed to govern co-operative selling organizations for the purpose of eliminating the middlemen. Further regulation of railroads seem to be inevitable. It is argued that much of the farmers' troubles are due to high freight rates both on what he produces and on what he buys. This involves the question of railroad valuations and on that there will be a tremendous fight.

Another class of complaint is high taxes, particularly on all the profits in the business. It is argued that the tariff on foreign goods is a very effort will be made to reduce its cost.

The House bill will come before the Senate. It is thought it should pass, as now it is, but it will necessitate a considerable increase in taxation, estimated at from $40 to $80 per year per family, according to the plan adopted.

The shipping situation is causing a great deal of worry, principally because private parties refuse to purchase and operate without a subsidy, and are not enough to prevent government operation. The Shipping Board has expended more than a thousand million of dollars, and the entire assets are now less than $300,000,000. Its a sorry exhibition of political graft and mismanagement, and may yet be given away to get rid of it.

These are some of the important questions that will come before the next regular or extra session and fire-works aplenty are on the program.

Your Health

Cause of Heartburn

Some gas is present in the stomach of most persons, to a greater or less degree. This condition is usually most pronounced, not in all cases however, during the process of digestion.

It is by no means an unnatural condition. When the stomach is busy mixing up the gastric juice with what you have eaten down, the trouble is apt to occur. If your food has been hastily chewed and swallowed or if you have washed it down with copious draughts of water, tea or coffee, to hurry the process of swallowing, you are likely to have gas.

The kind of food also determines to a certain extent what the amount of gas will be. Peaches or other acid fruits, if eaten hastily, will often cause rapid formation of gas in the stomach, with a tendency to inflation and heat pressure. Hot bread or biscuits hastily eaten will also cause gas during digestion.

The burning or gnawing sensation which is called by many persons heartburn is a result of this gas formation and acid outflow. The same really means heart pain, or as many physicians term it, Cardialgia. The food tube, or esophagus enters the stomach at the cardiac valve or opening which is rather in close proximity to the heart. The pressure of the gas in the stomach often causes the acid material from the gastric juice to escape through the cardiac into the lower esophagus, together with the pressure, causes the uncomfortable, rather irritating heartburn.

Occasional heartburn means nothing to worry over except your own bad eating habits. Careful attention to the proper chewing of your food and the right selection, avoiding those foods which cause the disturbance, will usually suffice.

A simple home remedy which will do much to relieve the acidity as milk of magnesia—dose, a large tablespoonful in water once or twice a day is beneficial. It may cause belching, but it relieves the condition. Do not use a severe or harsh physic as this may serve to aggravate rather than relieve your heartburn.

"Hello!" he greeted. "When did you come to Dixie Land?"

"Barber, barber, shave a pig. How many hairs to make a wig? Four and twenty, that's enough! Give the barber a pinch of snuff!"

Nancy and Nick looked to see who was singing, and you may imagine their surprise when a thin red pig turned the corner.

"Hello!" he greeted when he saw them. "When did you come to Dixie Land?"

"Yesterday," answered Nick. "When did you come?"

"About six months ago," said the little pig. "I was born here."

"Mr. goodness!" exclaimed Nancy. "You aren't very big. You look thin! Have you been sick?"

"No, sir, I haven't," declared the little red pig indignantly. "Never felt better in my life! It's my nature to be thin. I'm called Reddy Razor Back. Because my backbone sticks up like a razor, I suppose. Aren't all pigs like me?"

"I should say not!" said Nick. The pigs in Squeaky-Moo Land are as fat as butter. They're so fat they look like sausages!"

The little red pig shuddered. "Igh!" he squealed. "Don't say that word, please. Bacon and winners and ham and pork are likewise never mentioned in polite pig society in Dixie Land."

"I shouldn't think you would need to worry," spoke up Nancy. "You're too thin to—"

"You may as well say it," sighed

Berton Braley's Poem

LOVE OR LIVE!
("The seat of the emotions is in the liver"—Some doctor or other.)
Gee whiz, how science does advance!
Today, it seems, by diagram is
Our fever from a lady's glance
May be imparted embryos.
The chills and thrills that we receive,
The doctor and quack that make us quiver.

Our doctors teach us to believe
They may be love—they may be live!

When Dante, long ago, was led
To sing to Beatrice his lyrics (Which are much praised but seldom read).

Perhaps some medical empires
Would so have altered Dante's mood
That he'd have ceased to shiver and shiver.

When lovely Beatrice he viewed:
What was his almost love—or
live?

Helen and Paul, those are
And Lancelot, and all great lovers
May have been made out of germ
Inside—as science now discovers!

Well, maybe so, but we don't care
Not one scintilla, not a shiver,
Whether it's due to love—or live!

Not Guilty
First Stenographer—The idea of your working steady eight hours a day! I wouldn't think of such a thing.

Second Stenographer—I wouldn't, either. It was the boss that thought of it.—Town Topics, New York

Letter From Mrs. Mary Alden Prescott to Priscilla Bradford
My dear Priscilla:

You cannot tell how lonely I have been since you left me for New York.
It is not good for an old woman like me to live alone and I am delighted to know that when you return you are going to bring whatever part of your goods and chattels you may desire and come over to my house or rather your house—and live with me until the book is closed. Today I made my will, my dear, and left you all my small possessions.

It is a sad thing, dear Priscilla, to realize after you have borne a child and brought him up as nearly God-fearing as you could, that he would to smother his life over.

Although it grieves me to the heart to know this, my grief is not nearly as great as my fear—fear for him—for we know that just so surely as a child casts off his father or mother, just so surely will he be cast off by his child. This of course is more sure in the case of John, because he has taken into his heart and home a nameless child who will surely disappoint
if not dishonor him.

I am quite sure you are mistaken.
I am quite sure you are mistaken.
I am quite sure you are mistaken.

dear Priscilla, about Leslie on the street in New York. I have learned in a roundabout way that her father is very ill and if she has left her home for any place it would be to go him. I would write to her or to John and say that you thought you had seen her, but I solemnly vowed to myself that I would never again write to my son until he has written to me and in some way apologize, if not ask my forgiveness, for the letters he has sent me.

I do not want to shorten your stay at all in New York City, but I shall be very lonely until you return to your devoted friend,
Mary Alden Prescott.

THE END OF SUMMER

Pods are the popples, and slim spires of pods
The Hollyhocks, the balsam's pearly buds
Of rose-stained snow are little sacs of seeds
Collapsing at a touch, the lot, that sods
The pond with green, has changed its flowers to rods
And discs of vesicles, and all the weeds
Around the sleeper water and its reeds,
Are one white smoke of seeded silk that nods
Summer is dead, ay me, sweet Summer's dead
The sunset clouds have built her funeral pyre,
Through which even now, runs subterranean fire,
While from the East, as from a garden bed, Mist-mimed, the Dusk lifts her broad moon—like some Great golden melon—saying, Fall has come."

Hot Cereals

There is no breakfast dish that sticks to the ribs quite like a good hot cereal with cream.

The ready-to-eat cereals are all well with fruit and sugar and cream on a warm summer morning, but when there's a nip in the air a dish of steaming oatmeal porridge or mush is needed to make a hearty breakfast.

There is no more nourishing, muscle building food at so reasonable a price possible to serve. The grains themselves are composed chiefly of starch and carbohydrates with some water and mineral content. Wheat and oats contain some protein. The cream or milk furnishes fat and protein, making the whole dish a nearly perfect food.

There are one or two points worth remembering when cooking cereals.

First, always cook them in boiling water. This means rapidly bubbling water, not just steaming or bubbling on the bottom of the pan.

Second, add salt to the water before adding the cereal.

Third, all raw cereals must be well cooked. An hour or longer is required, no matter what the directions on the box suggest. Only by the long slow cooking of grains is their sweetness and digestibility fully developed.

Stable boiler is excellent for this purpose.

Put the cereal to be cooked into three times its bulk of boiling water. Allow one teaspoon salt to three cups of water. Cook directly over the heat, stirring to prevent lumping for 10 to 15 minutes. Then put into boiling water in the bottom of the boiler and cook for half an hour or longer.

The cereal should be covered tight. Fill up water pan with boiling water and let stand over night. In the morning reheat and serve. The heat of the cereal and the boiling water continue the cooking process after the fire is extinguished.

Any left-over cereal can be used in puddings or cut in thin slices and fried. If you have no double boiler or unless cooker try baking the oatmeal the night before.

Baked Oatmeal

One cup coarse oatmeal (not rolled oats), 4 cups rapidly boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt.

Slowly stir the cereal into the salted water. Cook 15 minutes. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven for two hours. In the morning put the dish in a large pan of warm water, bring to the boiling point and keep simmering until thoroughly hot. The length of time required will, of course, depend on the shape and size of the dish.

Old-fashioned oatmeal requires more water than rolled oats.

Do you ever add raisins or dates to the breakfast cereal? They contribute both to the nourishment and palatableness of the dish. Oatmeal porridge is a change and is especially good for children.

Oatmeal Porridge

One cup rolled oats, 3 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 cup stoned and chopped dates or raisins.

Cook oats as suggested in double boiler. Rub through sieve to the morning add milk heated to the boiling point. Do not allow milk to boil. Cook over boiling water, stirring vigorously until perfectly blended. Add chopped fruit and serve with this cream.

The long cooking of the oats brings out their natural sweetness, and the addition of the sweet fruit makes added sugar unnecessary.

Dutch Colonial for $8890

PLANS FOR THIS SLAIN ROOM HOME WERE FURNISHED BY
-THE CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA.

- This home can be built for $8,890 including heating, wiring and plumbing. The house is a ranch style with a large front porch, according to its designer, the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ta. The price may vary slightly in different localities.

Perhaps no other type of house has enjoyed so rapid a rise in demand in recent years as the Dutch colonial. And with perfectly good reason for it has a homelike charm that is most alluring. Here is a particularly good example of this style in a seven room home with a huge, sheltered front porch.

Trellised posts add to the attractiveness of the spacious veranda enclosed under the graceful sweep of the roof. A six panel colonial door

The second room has a built-in of a dressing table and hanging closet, and built-in the linen closet and bathroom on the hall convenient to the whole house. The hall is usually attractive on account of its irregularity of outline and color, and you will be assured against the monotony of the color and pattern of the window, built-in or outside window.

It pays this added money in the construction projects. Not only has his first cost been materially reduced but the several months with delay has cut into his profit and decreased profits to a considerable degree.

BOOK ON NATIONAL FORESTS OF SOUTH

Seven in Southern Appalachian Region Embrace District of 1,500,000 Acres

The national forests of the Southern Appalachians is the title of a new booklet just published by the United States Department of Agriculture, calling attention to the rapid development of forestry in West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Georgia.

There are seven national forests in the Southern Appalachian region embracing about 1,500,000 acres. Most of this acreage is either now forested with both virgin and second growth timber or is capable of growing new timber crops.

All of the Appalachian national forests have been built up under the provision of the Weeks Law passed by Congress in 1911. The primary purpose of this law is to protect the headwaters of the great navigable streams east of the Mississippi River by maintaining forests on their watersheds. Acquisition of lands suitable for national forest purposes has proceeded steadily under annual appropriations by Congress though such appropriations have been seriously curtailed since the beginning of the World War.

The booklet deals largely with the recreational advantages of the Appalachian forests which are rapidly becoming known as the "Playgrounds of the South and East." Many well-known recreational areas are within the forest boundaries. Mount Mitchell, the "Top of Eastern America," is within the Pisgah Forest and the Natural Bridge of Virginia is but a short distance from the boundary line of the National Bridge Forest. The attractions of the Pisgah Forest around Asheville, N. C., are a factor of great importance in the rapid development of the Asheville section as a recreational center, and the Shenandoah Forest embraces many places of interest bordering the historic Shenandoah Valley.

Many thousands of campers and hikers visit the Southern Appalachian Forests each year and many more thousands are expected to seek these forests as their charms become better known. Camping grounds are provided on many of the forests by the Forest Service and a system of guide posts and signs has been erected for the convenience of the traveler. Roads and trails within the forests are being constructed as rapidly as funds will permit. Already good auto roads ascend Mount Mitchell and Pisgah and several other peaks within the region.

The Cherokee National Forest in Tennessee, Georgia, and North Carolina, the Monongahela in West Virginia, the Nantahala in North Carolina, Georgia, and South Carolina, and the Unaka in Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina, also offer recreational advantages comparable to those offered by the Shenandoah, Natural Bridge, and Pisgah.

Copies of the booklet may be had free upon request to the District Forester, United States Forest Service, Washington, D. C.

WORK BUILDING NEW TELEPHONE CABLES STARTS

Work of constructing new cables was started by the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company at Pineville Saturday. The improvement will enlarge the telephone service at Pineville, making possible a large number of additional telephones. Survey of the right of way from Pineville to Harlan for the proposed toll lines between those towns was begun by engineers at Pineville today.

When the cable crew has finished work at Pineville the men will begin work in Middlesboro on the East End cable. This work will greatly enlarge the service in that section of town.

Jerry Moreland has returned from a business trip to Georgetown.

SCRUBBING wooden floors is a task that every woman should eliminate from her housework. It is injurious to her health and takes up a lot of time that could be used more pleasantly.

Linoleum floors make this task unnecessary. A mop removes the dirt without much effort and takes but a few minutes.

A Linoleum floor is much more attractive than a wood floor—there are no unsightly cracks. It is more sanitary and more comfortable to walk on. It will give years of service and save hours of time.

"THE BAT" HERE TONIGHT.

BIG HIT IN KNOXVILLE

Seat sales for "The Bat" were reported this afternoon to be unusually heavy and the show, at the Manning theatre tonight promises to be one of the best ever played in Middlesboro. The following review of the show is from the Journal and Tribune of Knoxville, where it played last night.

"The Bat" went over last night with a hundred per cent success before an audience that packed the Bijou orchestra and balconies to capacity. Rapid acting combined with a plot carrying the suspense of the very last lines produced one of the biggest hits the Knoxville public has enjoyed for some time.

Lizzie Evans played the leading role, Miss Cornelia Van Gorder, a lady honest enough to admit she was sixty and clever enough to outwit several of the superior sex. Josephine Morse who took the part of "Lizzie" the superstitious maid, got most of the laughs and if she forgot at times during the last act that she was supposed to be intoxicated she was smart enough to make up for it. Her comedy saved the situation a number of times and produced a laugh just at the critical moment when the plot threatened to be given some.

Even had the plot not been made up of one surprise after another, the lines were clever enough to merit the success of the production.

"MRS. AND MR. POLLY TICK" HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Prominent Young Lumberman Wants to Be R. R. Commissioner

Down near the tail end of the ticket under the Democratic device appears the name of "Clifton B. Gross, of Buckhorn, (Perry County) Ky.," who is the Democratic Nominee for Railroad Commissioner in the Third District, comprising 40 odd counties in the Eastern half of the State, and reaching from Covington to Middlesboro and from Whitely to Boyd.

Clifton Gross is a mountain boy born, reared and educated among us. By indefatigable perseverance and energy he has worked up from the ground floor—or rather from the tie woods to a commanding place among men of affairs. As head of the Buckhorn Coal and Lumber Company he has active charge of varied interests throughout the mountains and is in close touch with the need and development of this part as well as others in the State. He is eminently fitted for the place of Railroad Commissioner and he should receive the votes of all Bell county citizens regardless of politics.

America's fastest-growing cigarette

The fact that so many thousands of smokers are changing from other brands of cigarettes to Chesterfield, confirms our belief that smokers do appreciate real tobacco quality.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

"I named him 'Chesterfield' after the fastest-stepping cigarette in the country."
